

Tudor Place Manuscript Collection
Caroline (Ogden-Jones) Peter Papers
MS-22

Introduction

Caroline (Ogden-Jones) Peter (1894-1965) was the wife of Armistead Peter 3rd (1896-1983). With her husband she established the foundation to preserve Tudor Place, its collections, and its grounds.

These papers were a part of the estate Armistead Peter placed under the auspices of the Carostead Foundation, Incorporated, in 1966; the name of the foundation was changed to Tudor Place Foundation, Incorporated, in 1987. Use and rights of the papers are controlled by the Foundation. The collection was processed and the register prepared by Anne Webb, the Foundation archivist. This document was reformatted by Emily Rusch and revised by Tudor Place archivist Wendy Kail in 2020.

Biographical Sketch

Caroline (Ogden-Jones) Peter (1894-1965) was born in Paris on December 26, 1894, the daughter of Suzanne (Earle) Ogden-Jones (1862-1954) and Mahlon Ogden-Jones (1849-1900). She grew up in Europe and the United States; she attended the Potomac School in McLean, Virginia, and the Holton-Arms School in Bethesda, Maryland. Summers were spent in France; her mother eventually maintained homes in France, New York City, and Washington, D.C. During World War I she attended nursing school at Johns Hopkins University and worked as a nurse's aide for the American Red Cross at the Debarkation Hospital Number 1 in Hoboken, New Jersey, and Debarkation Hospital Number 3 on Hoffman Island [off Staten Island], New York.

In 1921 she married Armistead Peter 3rd (1896-1983) and in 1922 their daughter Anne Custis Peter was born in Paris, where Armistead Peter 3rd was studying art. The young family remained based in Paris, but travelled extensively. When Caroline (Ogden-Jones) Peter's father-in-law, Armistead Peter, Jr., (1870-1960), and mother-in-law, Anna (Williams) Peter (1872-1961), separated in 1923, Caroline (Ogden-Jones) and Armistead Peter 3rd returned to the United States to help supervise household affairs at Tudor Place. Although they maintained a separate residence of their own, with her husband she oversaw life at Tudor Place and helped manage their family farm in Cambridge, New York. Caroline (Ogden-Jones) Peter retained a lifelong interest in music and art and traveled widely with her husband. During World War II she worked in Washington, D.C., for the Red Cross in a volunteer supervisory position, and was head of the nurse's aides at Georgetown Hospital; she continued such work after the war at Mount Alto Hospital.

After the death of her mother in 1954, Caroline (Ogden-Jones) Peter carefully distributed her stepfather Paul Wayland Bartlett's (1865-1925) sculpture to museums throughout the United States. When she and her husband moved into Tudor Place to live permanently after the death of Armistead Peter, Jr., she participated in refurbishing the house. She and her husband established the foundation to insure the upkeep of the house and grounds after their deaths. Caroline (Ogden-Jones) Peter died in 1965.

Scope and Content

Caroline (Ogden-Jones) Peter's papers include approximately 15 linear feet of personal and business correspondence, financial records, subject files, diaries, and scrapbook material spanning the dates 1900 to 1965. The bulk of the material occurs between 1915 and 1960.

The personal correspondence is from family members, including her mother, husband, daughter, and friends ranging from soldiers she nursed during World War I to social acquaintances of later life. A large proportion of the business correspondence concerns the distribution of Paul Wayland Bartlett's sculptures to museums throughout the United States during the period 1955-65.

Financial records include personal bills and receipts as well as account books and household accounts for both Tudor Place and their property in Cambridge, New York. Subject files include menus and guest lists for entertaining.
